MORE THAN A SCHOOL CEREMONY

Every Monday, Eren arrives at school twenty minutes before the first lesson. He usually checks the noticeboard and helps the class leader organise the weekly duty list. His friend Ada also arrives early, but she prefers preparing the classroom for lessons. She checks the materials and makes sure the desks are tidy.

This week, the school is planning a Republic Day celebration. Eren volunteers to welcome visitors and guide them to the assembly hall. Ada wants to give a speech, but the teacher asks her to support the music team because she plays the piano well. At first, Ada feels disappointed. Later, she understands that every responsibility is important. On the day of the ceremony, Eren greets the guests cheerfully while Ada helps the performers follow their programme. After the national anthem, the headteacher thanks all the students for working together.
